

What's the difference between a bank and a credit union?

The answer is simple. Credit unions put people first.

- We share our profits with our members
- We offer lower fees and competitive rates
- We never fee gouge or take advantage
- We only offer advice in your best interest
- We always treat you like a human being
- We treat all equally regardless of your account size
- We admit our mistakes
- We give more to communities and causes than other financial institutions

People are looking for a money-managing partner with their best interests in mind.
