

Prepare for a Connected Year... Welcome to the New Normal!

Work together, meet and communicate efficiently, and do it all from anywhere! These are the new expectations of today's telecom solutions, and Millside Total Communications is here to design those solutions for tomorrow's new normal.

Your Work From Anywhere Solution!

Your team can experience the freedom of a cloud-based phone system installed quickly and easily with zero to minimal down time! Adjusting to the growing demands of the life/work balance, we believe in systems that support remote workers' busy schedules, allowing them to set up a home office and continue making business calls from their homes' safety and comfort.

In such challenging times, you owe it to your valuable team to provide flexibility to manage (and thrive in!) this new work/life balance. Multiple studies across the globe prove that employees with flexible schedules are often more productive and engaged. Simultaneously, this flexibility also tends to lead to more committed and loyal team members and boosts morale. The team develops a better understanding and appreciation of each others' needs and circumstances.

Adapted For The Ever-Changing Workplace

Flexibility and adaptation are essential survival techniques for today's thriving business. Designing your systems to be flexible, grow, and be modified as needed is what prepares your business for an unexpected shift in operations. Millside Hosted Phone systems have no problem making modifications, expanding, and offer straightforward installation – allowing your new team members to be easily added (or removed) from your system with effortless expansion.

The cost savings that come with these updates are also a reason to be excited about this new collaboration method. Keeping your team engaged with reliable video conferencing is financially beneficial when you can factor in the savings of previous monthly meeting costs (hotels, meals, expenses), all while knowing your team is safe.

While the modern working world is changing, technology is changing with it! Millside Total Communications works hard to ensure your business remains successful through efficient phone systems, top-notch networks, and solutions that change the way we connect. The future depends on those advances.

Unparalleled Personalization

Client relations and personal service matter more than ever, and your customers notice! Having the ability to add unique customizations, send and receive calls, record your greetings and manage your voicemail just like you're at the office helps create a professional impression regardless of your location. Through Auto-Attendant, your virtual assistant can also forward your clients' calls to the extension or number of their choice while giving your customers the same convenience as an in-office receptionist.
